

35 years of Integrated Education

- 62 schools – 20 colleges, 42 primary schools
- 22,000 children and young people being educated together
- Generations of past students
- Cross community friendships
- Trust building
- A model for sharing and learning
- Hope for and in the future

What next?

- Visit your local integrated school and get a flavour of the integrated experience.
- If your local school is not integrated, ask why. Explain that an integrated education is your preferred option for your child.
- Contact NICIE to support you in ensuring there is a choice of integrated education in your area.

Shape the future through Integrated Education.

For further information please contact:

Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education
25 College Gardens
Belfast, BT9 6BS

Tel: 028 9097 2910
Fax: 028 9097 2919
Web: www.nicie.org
Email: info@nicie.org.uk

ONE SCHOOL FOR ALL

Educational excellence for all

Integrated Education for an integrated future

What is Integrated Education?

Integrated Education educates together Protestant and Catholic children and those of other faiths or none, in schools which accept and nurture the individual and respect the culture and identity of each child equally.

Why Integrated Education?

We continue to live in a society segregated by education, housing and politics.

In integrated schools we remove the barriers which separate; we create a safe space in which children learn with, from and about each other.

The benefits of Integrated Education

- Educational excellence
- Equality, inclusion and diversity
- Tolerance, trust and respect
- A voice for the young person
- A child centred education
- A partnership with parents

Where to find Integrated Education

There are 62 integrated schools across the province. Parents are entitled to the choice of an integrated education for their child. There are different ways in which a new or existing school may choose to become integrated.

Integrated schools provide an education for the future committed to excellence, equality and achievement.

Integrated schools focus on a quality education which prepares each child and young person for a rapidly changing society.

An Integrated Choice in every area

Ensure there is the choice of an integrated school in every area.

You can support your school on a journey of transformation to becoming an integrated school.