

[Annsborough CIPS]

Castlewellan

Annsborough Integrated is a controlled integrated primary school situated in a rural area.

It is the original integrated school in the province having been established in 1835 and this year it celebrated 180 years of integrated education. This major milestone for the school was very well supported by: pupils; parents and staff - past and present; and representatives from many areas of education including NICIE, DENI and the EA.

The staff of Annsborough Integrated Primary School strive at all times to create a safe, secure and stimulating environment where there is mutual respect, where pupils are valued and where each child can achieve his/her potential intellectually, socially and physically.

The dedicated teaching team aim to use the stimulating atmosphere to instil a love of learning in each and every child.